“GIVE TO THOSE WHO HAVE GIVEN A LIFETIME;” SPECIAL COLLECTION SUPPORTS RETIRED RELIGIOUS

BY CATHERINE MULHERN FOR THE CATHOLIC SUN | DEC 2, 2024

If you’ve attended a university, received hospital care, or studied in a Catholic school, your life has likely been touched by someone with a religious vocation. Sunday, December 8, the Retirement Fund for Religious will support the 93% of communities struggling to fund retirement. These priests, nuns, and brothers, including many in the Diocese of Phoenix, have dedicated their lives to Christ and continue enriching the Church even in retirement.

“We have no true motherhouses here in the Diocese of Phoenix, where the infirmed religious go when they are no longer able to take care of themselves,” shared Sr. Ginger Downey, OLVM, director of the Office of Consecrated Life for the Diocese of Phoenix. “But we do have dozens of retired religious men and women who have not reached that point yet, and they are very active in ministry and continue to share their presence and gifts with us here in the diocese.”

She is referring to people like Sr. Ann Marley, SSND, who entered the School Sisters of Notre Dame in 1956 before serving as an elementary school teacher for decades across several states. Most recently she served in the Diocese of Phoenix since 1999, teaching at St. Thomas the Apostle Catholic School in Phoenix. Since retiring, Sr. Marley’s active and impactful ministry has not ended, but rather has shifted. She now spends numerous hours every week teaching American English to priests and religious sisters from other countries, sharing her gifts of music and art through a variety of outlets and fostering relationships with parish staff members and parishioners through intentional time spent together.

“In her retirement, Sr. Ann now has time to do things she wasn’t able to do when she was teaching all day, like slowing down and helping those in need by simply being present to them.

“You might not even realize that our retired priests, who have stepped back to some degree, are still very active as well. They are often at the big Reconciliation services that take places during Lent and Advent, they celebrate Mass and other sacraments and can stand in for pastors who may be out of town or have an emergency.”

Religious men and women often remain active in ministry and community well into retirement, sharing their gifts and enriching the Church. “Religious life is a charism, a great gift,” said Sr. Downey. With 80% of religious at retirement age, now is the time to support those who have dedicated their lives to service.

The Retirement Fund for Religious helps care for elderly religious while sustaining the future of religious life. To donate, visit: www.dphx.org/special-collections/.
